This family house is offered for sale in a quiet side street in Remeteszőlős, with a large garden-facing terrace among its most inviting features. It connects the living and dining areas directly to the outdoors: morning coffee, a weekend lunch or an evening conversation can move easily into the open air.

The timber kitchen and the lines of the internal staircase complement the home's classic atmosphere. Work surfaces on both sides of the kitchen and a pantry support everyday cooking. The living/dining room is a place to be together, while the ground-floor study gives work or reading its own space.

Upstairs are three bedrooms and a bathroom. Timber floors and sloping ceilings give the rooms a welcoming feel, and the balcony offers another connection outside. A ground-floor shower room and WC complement the upstairs sleeping accommodation, spreading the daily routine across the house.

There is a single garage, with heating provided by a gas boiler, underfloor heating and radiators. Alongside Remeteszőlős's residential setting, nearby Hungarian and international schools and shopping facilities support everyday life. The terrace-connected shared space and separate bedrooms give both family activities and quieter hours a natural place.
