Beside the forest in Budaliget, a modern family house offers a rental home for life connected to green surroundings. The large living room opens towards the garden, while a bright kitchen is a natural setting for shared days. In the clean-lined interiors, personal furnishings can create the family's own world.

Five bedrooms can give everyone independent space alongside the communal area. The timber-floored rooms can accommodate a study, guests or children's separate spaces. Three levels allow different schedules to coexist, and three bathrooms support the daily routine.

A walk-in wardrobe and double garage are practical elements of organised living. With the living room open to the garden, outdoor life stays close: a breath of morning air, afternoon relaxation or time together in the garden can easily become familiar habits. The neighbouring forest adds particular value to the setting.

Built in 2018, the house stands in a quiet side street. The French School and other educational options in Pesthidegkút provide support for families, while Hűvösvölgy is an important connection to the city. Spacious communal areas, separate rooms and green surroundings together provide an opportunity to settle for the longer term.
