In Remetekertváros, a modern family house provides a generous framework for time together and more personal activities. Five bedrooms accompany the living room, allowing every family member a space of their own within the shared home. A separate study or a room reserved for guests can also be arranged as needs evolve.

Five bathrooms offer particular freedom in organising the daily rhythm. Alongside mornings and evening returns, longer stays by guests can fit more comfortably into the life of the house. The living room can remain a place to be together, while rest and personal routines stay separate.

The 965 m² plot also provides room for outdoor living. The garden can be used according to the family's habits: shared meals, children's games or quieter relaxation. Parking for two cars is included, bringing daily arrivals and departures within the home's own setting.

Alongside Remetekertváros's residential surroundings, Pesthidegkút's schools and Hűvösvölgy's connections provide the wider backdrop to family life. The house's principal quality is the combination of numerous independent rooms and its own plot: shared life can be organised while leaving room for changing family needs, work and guests.
